

TWO ACCUSED OF PLOT IN $476,000 HOLD-UP OF BOND MESSENGERS

was from his brother, Joseph, a butcher. He was vague in explaining the second call. When Joseph was questioned he was emphatic in stating that he had not telephoned to Tony; that he had been at the De Gregorio home, No. 76 Albert Avenue, Queens, during the greater part of the day. The mother of the two, however, maintained that Joseph had left the house at 8 o'clock in the morning and had not returned until 7 o'clock last night. As a result of the conflicting stories the two men were placed under arrest, charged with "acting in concert in assaulting and robbing Austin Young."

Charles E. Reed, office manager for Kean, Taylor & Co., to-day confirmed the value of the stolen bonds as $476,000. Mr. Reed expressed surprise that De Gregorio had been arrested. He stated that "Tony" had been with the concern for five years and was "honest and industrious."

Mr. Reed said the police led him to believe that an important arrest would be made soon.

The stolen bonds were of $5,000 and $10,000 denominations, and all but $40,000 are negotiable. Not the faintest trace has been found of them. Austin Young and Irving Cohen left the office of Kean, Taylor & Co. at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon to deliver the liberty bonds to Igoe Brothers, wire mail manufacturers at No. 69 Metropolitan Avenue, Williamsburg. The messengers boarded a B. R. T. subway train at the Municipal Building and rode to Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn. From that point they walked thirteen blocks to Metropolitan Avenue and when close to the Igoe factory were set upon by the robbers, Young said.

"Four men stepped out from a doorway," so he told the story to Acting Inspector Coughlin of the detective division, at Police Headquarters—"and made a grab for our bag. Igoe's was only a jump away and I tried to make it. Cohen let go of the bag, but one of the men got hold of me and we went to the sidewalk together."

AUTO LICENSE NUMBER HELD IN FICTITIOUS NAME.

"Let go, you pup, let go," he said to me as he yanked at the bag. He looked like an Italian, but I didn't get a chance to notice him very carefully, for just then he shot at me—they all had guns—and the bullet went past my ear. He got the bag away from me and all four beat it for a Ford that was standing out in the street.

"I guess they thought at first that I had been killed, but I got to my feet and Cohen and I started for the car. One of the men shot again just as he was climbing in, and then the car turned into Wythe Avenue, and that was the last we saw of it. I got the number of its license tag, though."

This led the detectives to one of the extraordinary aspects of the case. The number that Young read was 147-558, which is on the records of the Secretary of State's office as having been granted to John Ryan of No. 73 New Chambers Street, Manhattan. Inspector Coughlin said to-day that both this name and the address had been found to be fictitious. Later on, when the car itself had been found, a second set of plates was found beneath the driver's seat bearing the number 258-102. The records show this to have been granted to Joseph Quinn of No. 219 East 32d Street, Brooklyn, and by him transferred by sale to Harry Dunphy of No. 315 74th Street, Manhattan, East or West not specified. These names and addresses, like the others, were said by the police to be false, this device together with the use of a car that could safely be abandoned, if need arose, indicating preparation for just such an emergency as did develop. A. J. Igoe, head of Igoe Bros., was ill at his home, No. 128 Stratford Road, Brooklyn, all day yesterday. His brother and partner James was away from the works at the time of the robbery and refused to-day to say what the exact amount of the bonds was, or for what purpose the firm had been buying them. The police said, however, that the Igoes were wealthy men and presumably were buying for investment. Young, who is twenty-nine and lives in Maspeth, L. I., has been employed as a salesman by Kean, Taylor & Co. for the past three years. Cohen, who is twenty-one and lives at No. 1248 44th Street, Borough Park, Brooklyn, has been employed by the firm as a messenger for the past seven months.

Preparing for one hundred and twenty million meals with the New Karo for 1921

Last year American housewives bought over five million cans of the New Karo. Delicious flavor, moderate price and wise buying

Do you know that the makers of Karo are the world's largest users of the purest and best flavored maple sugar?

That over a thousand tons of maple sugar from the finest maple groves in Vermont and Canada are used each year to flavor the New Karo?

This New Karo in the Green Can is pure and wholesome—its flavor is not an imitation.

Yet the price is so moderate that you can afford to serve it at every meal.

Try it on some nice hot waffles, or brown pancakes. Or as a spread for bread or crisp toast.

If the New Karo isn't the most satisfying syrup you ever tasted, at the most satisfying price you ever paid for a similar syrup, return the balance of the can and the grocer will refund your money.
